

| THE POPE'S SECTION

The Migrants & Refugees Section is a small action-oriented Vatican department directed by Pope Francis. He is convinced that special attention must be given to ensure that those forced to flee are not shut out or left behind.

The M&R Section helps the Church worldwide to support those displaced by conflict, natural disaster, persecution or extreme poverty; those finding their difficult way to safety or are stuck; and those who fall victim to human trafficking.

| WE WEEP, THEN ACT

At Lampedusa and Lesbos, major transit points in Italy and Greece, we spent time with the migrants and refugees huddled there. On the plane back home, we brought some Syrian refugee families to live in the Vatican.

“When we heal the wounds of refugees, displaced persons, and he said, “we are practising the commandment of love that Jesus is that of Christ” (24 May, 2013). What the Pope teaches and do M&R Section to help others say and do throughout the world.

| M&R DOES

The M&R Section’s mission is to assist the Church

- the Bishops, the faithful, the clergy, Church organizations, and to accompany those who are departing and fleeing, those in transition who are arriving and seek to integrate, and those who return. What does this mean?

To see, to listen, to welcome

To protect

To assist and integrate

To pursue long-term solutions

In Jesus’ own words, “Do to others as you would have them do
